

UPDATE

We are writing to let you know that, following the short hiatus caused by COVID 19, work is progressing well on developing the first phase of apartments and houses on Folkestone Seafront. The contractors introduced secure working practices to ensure the safety of their staff and were able to retrieve nearly all of the time lost by the temporary suspension of work on the site.

Piling is now complete, with 200 piles having been sunk up to a depth of 27 metres to ensure that the building has solid foundations supported by bedrock. The following images were captured during June while this work was taking place.

Groundworks have now started and there will be further landmark events in the coming weeks, including installation of drainage works and the imminent arrival of two tower cranes, which will be used initially to transfer building materials across the site.

We look forward to providing further updates in the coming weeks. If you know of someone else who might like to receive news of our plans, they can do so by signing up to our mailing list here: www.folkestoneseafront.com
